First Year Course Selection Guide 2015

INTRODUCTION

The following first-year course selection recommendations are based on the assumption that the student is enrolling in 30 credits. Students may choose to take fewer than 30 credits and should consult with an advisor on which courses/credits are most important to take in first year.

The courses below are recommendations for first year course selection, designed for new students with little or no transfer credit from another post-secondary institution. Students with transfer credits should consult with an advisor regarding course selection.

For upper-level courses and complete degree and program requirements, please consult the Undergraduate Calendar.

LANGUAGES, LITERATURES AND LINGUISTICS

The Department of Languages, Literatures and Linguistics (DLLL) offers a variety of language courses at the elementary (1000) level. Course offerings include:

- American Sign Language
- Arabic
- Chinese
- English as a Second Language
- German (see also German Studies)
- Greek (Classical and Modern)
- Hebrew
- Hindi-Urdu
- Italian (see also Italian Culture and Italian Studies)
- Jamaican Creole
- Japanese
- Korean
- Latin
- Persian
- Portuguese (see also Portuguese and Luso-Brazilian Studies)
- Spanish
- Swahili

Any student may enroll in a language course at any level, subject to the conditions listed below.

- Admission to a student's first course in a language is by placement questionnaire, interview and/or departmental authorization. Students who have not received the necessary authorization or written a placement questionnaire will be denied access to all courses with these requirements.

- In most cases, students who have completed a 1000-level language course with a grade of at least “C” are automatically admissible to a course at the next level in the same language, but may be pre-tested for purposes of course or section placement.
- Registration in any language course may be limited at the discretion of the department.
- Students intending to major or minor in German Studies, Italian Culture, Italian Studies, Portuguese and Luso-Brazilian Studies or Spanish are encouraged to begin study of the relevant language in their first year.

Credit for language courses

- A language course may be taken for credit in any year of any undergraduate program. In order to advance from one level to another level, a student must achieve a minimum grade of “C”.

Entry to departmental literature and culture courses

- In literature and culture courses, instruction is normally given in the relevant language; entry to courses and programs depends upon the student’s ability to function in that language. The department may require a student to demonstrate language competence before granting admission to a course.
- For details, please consult the department’s Supplemental Calendar.
- For regulations concerning entry to courses in Greek or Latin literature, consult a member of the program in Classical Studies/Classics/Hellenic Studies in the Department of Humanities.
