Climate Change Challenges and Opportunities for Action

Join the conversation and share your thoughts…

Climate Change is among our most urgent global challenges. Communication is now playing a more central role in enabling the broad changes in attitude and behavior required to address the current and anticipated challenges of global climate change. Let's collectively discuss options. What is the nature of the change needed, and how can communication enable the individual, social and political changes for its realization? This Community Conversation welcomes community input from everyone, will foster a dialogue around these global challenges, and more…
